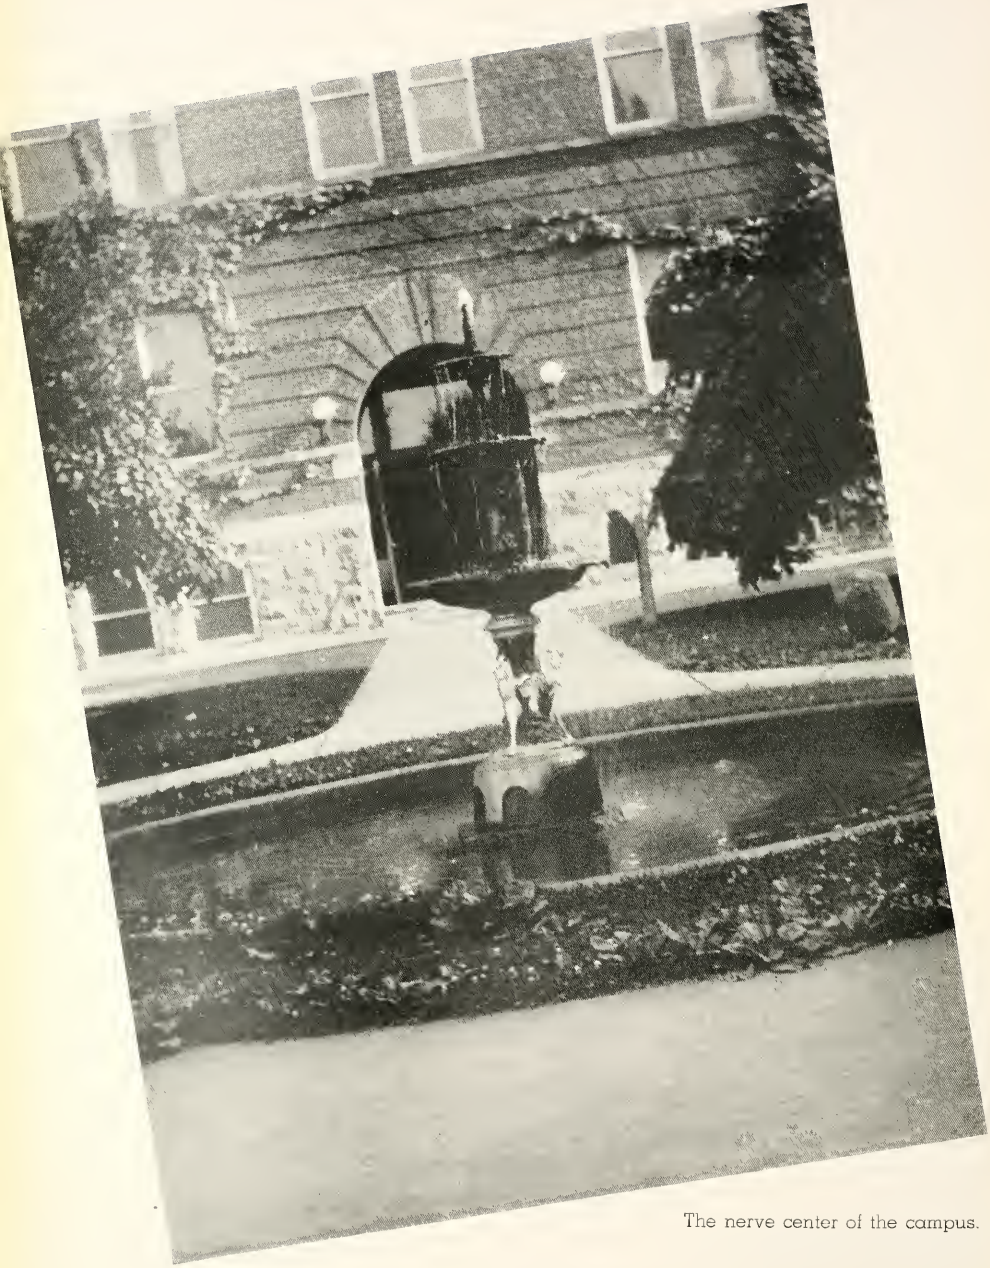
In the new Goshen College Memorial Library a dream has become brick and plaster. It is not primarily a safe in which to store books but rather a tool to increase the effectiveness of instruction, as truly it has during its first year of service. Its comfort and convenience have been appreciated by students and faculty alike. With its appropriate landscaping the Georgian Colonial building adds much to the beauty of the campus. Undoubtedly the excellence of the Library was an important factor in the acceptance of Goshen College as a member of the North Central Association. We acknowledge the tireless efforts for Goshen College of those to whom the Library is a memorial and we pledge that by our use of it we shall honor them, the institution which they helped to build, and the Master Whom they served.



The nerve center of the campus.

ATION AND SCIENCE

Classrooms, offices, laboratories fill the science Hall and Administration Building. In the past year, following the plan for progress, the Snack Shop, a new bookstore, music practise rooms, and enlarged Business Office, Adelphian Hall, additional office room, redecorated locker rooms, and the Student Lounge have been added to the Administration Building. Science Hall has been improved by new equipment in the Foods Laboratory, new lighting in Aurora Hall, and the redecoration of the entire building.

College students do not forget the home folks — as the eagerness displayed on the arrival of the postman shows.

Students live in Kulp Hall, where Miss Good mothers a hundred-odd girls, and across the campus in Coffman Hall, which is home to the fellows. Here is where we become more truly brothers and sisters in the "big, happy family" that is Goshen College. By sharing the daily round of work, study, and play we stimulate the friendly spirit which characterizes the school. By the Coffman Hall Council and the Kulp Hall Standards Committee we learn to control ourselves better and more intelligently. A valuable part of our college education is gained through living in the dormitories.

In Brief..... THIS I

From freshman days to commencement — another college year has passed. Literaries, choruses, clubs organized with their new crop of members. The autumn social, the first concert, the first lecture, and the senior sneak were scarcely past until Homecoming brought scores of old grads back to inspect the progress of their Alma Mater, to renew old comradeships. Then presto, it was Christmas with special programs and the annual singing of the Messiah. Like a dream it was for most of us to be at home for Christmas and the opening of a new year. Twenty-four students gave their vacation to gospel-team work. Back to the old grind again, we kept busy making friends with Short Termers and frantically studying for mid-year examinations. Winter Bible School ended with a flourish in Ministers' Week and a great Christian Life Conference. The debate squad brought home new forensic honors to the school. On March 27, 1941, the North Central Association accepted Goshen

College as a member, placing us on a par with ranking colleges and universities. No student will ever forget the general rejoicing, culminating in a parade and bonfire. The Easter recess saw the A Cappella Chorus travelling east into Ohio and Pennsylvania and another gospel team visiting points north and west, including the Minnesota mission field. All at once the Spring Team students were among us and the round of spring festivities was on. Already we must think of leaving the familiar scenes of campus life, of parting from friends, newly made or grown dearer in the year. Examination week, the class outings, all the cherished fanfare of graduation speed past and the year has ended. We have tried to catch the high points in pictures for you in this 1941 Maple Leaf. We hope that in future years it may recall the songs, tears, laughter, work, and play of this college year.

The College

Here they are — the Seniors who almost envy the Freshmen as they watch the last few days of their college life slipping by; the Juniors fresh from the responsibilities of publishing a Maple Leaf and ready for the duties of Seniors; the Sophomores, quite sure they know what college is all about and eager for more of it; and the Freshmen with eyes cleared of that characteristic haze — they will file past for your inspection in the next pages.

Ernest E. Miller, Ph. D.

PRESIDENT

With a world-wide range of experience, fine scholarship, and a deep, sincere Christian experience as a background, President Miller is an able man for so responsible a position. He is an inspiring leader, a sympathetic and wise counsellor, and a dependable friend.

The Tragedy of Unused Resources

One of the most impressive facts of history is the poverty of man in a world surcharged with immeasureable power. The power was there but man had not discovered it. Steam was in existence the first day of primitive man boiled fish in a rude pail on a heap of burning wood. For centuries he went on boiling fish and meat. For centuries the steam rose lrom the boiling pail but man continued doing all the work of the world with his own hands. Here was the steam all about him waiting to do his work, to multiply his powers ten thousand fold, but he went on riding on clumsy wagons behind slow bullocks.

Or, again, the world was surcharged with electricity in the days of primitive man just as it is today. For centuries the universe has been packed with it calling man to harness it and let it be a giant to extend the powers of his speech around the world. A few years ago I stood before the pyramids in Egypt. As I looked at those monuments of massive stones, I recalled that it took thousands of men years to build them. Several dozen might have built them in a relatively short time by using an electric motor or a steam engine. Immeasurable resources; but man ignorant of them.

But, the most amazing thing in history is the reluctance of man to increase his stature and capacity for power by siezing on these great resources when they did become known to him. Long after steam was invented thousands of men still insisted on working their own looms. There are lands today where the people know of steam and electricity but refuse to utilize them. They are content to live as weaklings in the midst of resources that would make them great and strong.

However, the same thing is happening in even more astonishing measure here and now. It must be the most pathetic thing the eyes of God ever looked upon that with all we profess to know and have, that we live in a world where vast spiritual resources have been released and we fail to utilize them. All about us in the world are thousands of persons living weak impoverished lives while the world is packed with riches — every bush aflame with God. It is shameful to be weak when we might be strong; to be inelfective when the need requires that we should be dynamic and powerful.

SENIOR CLASS

In September, 1937, one hundred and eighteen individuals made their appearance upon Goshen College campus and were generally known as the Freshmen Class. The class president was Charles Ainlay; vice-president, Ralph Hernley; secretary, Doris Stuckey; treasurer, Joe Burkholder; historian, Shirley Erb. During this first year we held our colors high in forensics, debating, and athletics. We certainly would not want to forget our skating party in the gym and our long-remembered outing at Lake Webster.

In 1938 eighty-eight individuals again appeared on the campus, this time as full-fledged Sophomores. Again we progressed under the capable leadership of Charles Ainlay. Our vice-president was Ralph Hernley; secretary, Betty Kate Lee; historian, Ella May Weaver. We thoroughly enjoyed our kid's party in the home economics rooms where each Sophomore lost his dignity and became a real youngster in pigtails and bow-ties. Certainly no Sophomore could forget that ride in the back of the Miller truck on class day through a veritable cloudburst.

Our Junior year opened with forty-five of our old members back and five new ones. Charles Ainlay gave an example to Mr. Roosevelt by being elected for a third term. Our vice-president was Robert Hartzler; secretary, Eunice Weaver; treasurer, Orval Shoemaker; and historian, Lola Schertz. Such things will be remembered from our Junior year: our outing at the Kiwanis Cabin near Elkhart, our moral victory over the Seniors, the Christmas party at the home of Dr. Hershberger, our sponsor, and the Junior-Senior banquet when the Seniors were taken on board the Goshen College Cruiser under the leadership of Captain Ainlay.

As a senior, Charles Ainlay set a further precedent for Mr. Roosevelt by being elected for a fourth term as class president. The vice-president was Paul King; treasurer, Ernest Smucker; and secretary-historian, Lois Wingard. Outstanding Senior memories can be spelled with eight letters—THE SNEAK. Perhaps now the Juniors will really recognize the "peaches" that Mr. Gunden hauls to South Haven, Michigan. For the Seniors the sneak connotates such things as sand dunes, a full moon, a moonlight launch ride, wading (?) in Lake Michigan and an all-around good time.

We are Seniors now, but very soon we will be Freshmen in the school of life. As another class steps in to fill our place may CULTURE FOR SERVICE truly be its goal. And as we leave for a larger field may our college motto yet be ringing in our ears so that Goshen and Goshen ideals will not be forgotten.

Colors	Blue and Silver
Flower	White Chrysanthemum
Motto	God our guide, Service our path, Success our goal.

PEACE

There can be peace.

Until I learned to look beyond a life that seemed black and full of dark shadows—

I knew no peace.

But now I know
A tired soul
Can drift as mystic in the smoke and haze of silent summer.

Awaken—clean with the growth and green and life of spring.
Lie unstressed
in the quiet white and hush of winter.
Find a calm
in the russet and sorrell and still skies of autumn.

JUNIOR CLASS

With Graveyard Inn as the locale, the Junior class started its year's activities at the annual fall outing. For those who did not care to visit the cemetery, a soft-ball game was organized. Roasting angels on horseback proved to involve many technical difficulties; heavenly stables, black brew, spuds en gasoline and feather pie were other items on the menu. "Eins, zwei, drei, spiel!"—the all-woman German band proceeded to coldbloodedly murder a couple of harmless songs; the hill band that followed did all in its power to raise the dead in the neighborhood. Songs and ghost stories around the fire concluded a gruesome evening.

Yes, the Seniors snuck, so they say, with overwhelming success. The banquet planned in their honor took into account their simple tastes and featured wieners, sauer kraut in large tin cans, quarts of mustard and catsup, bread crudely left in the wrapper—all eaten off paper plates. Royce Engle toastmastered efficiently, a miscellaneous group of Juniors gave an idea of the way the Seniors looked at New Haven, Fannie Schrock lucidly outlined sneak plans of the class of '42, vagabond poems were read, Jake Heatwole gave a learned dissertation on peaches, and there was music of a sort.

"Come dressed to represent the kind of person you planned to be in the future when you were a child," were the preliminary instructions regarding a social held in the middle of March. Consequently it was a wierd-looking crowd that gathered in sponsor "Prof." Yoder's home. A hobo, a glamor girl, a widow complete with six small children, a Spanish senorita, a preacher, an air-line hostess, and a couple of artists were among those present. Games occupied most of the evening, finished off by refreshments, notable among which were two really super cakes contributed by "Mrs. Prof." The Junior class looks forward to more activity in the spring; if the Junior-Senior Banquet, among other things, was not a signal success, it was not the fault of our most efficient social committee.

BETWEEN TWO THIEVES

A hostile crowd before and behind,
No God overhead—
Ah, what a way to die!

And yet—
He who was so concerned in Lazarus' struggle with Dives
Who invited himself to the home of the thief Zaccheus,—
Who forgave the wretched adultress,—
Who loved to dine with publicans and harlots;—
He who preferred to live with sinners, was it not fitting that He should die between two thieves?

And so He died.
Self-righteous Pharisees and Scribes,
Musty with study and copy,
Flung this devil's prong:
"If thou be the Son of God,
Save thyself and come down!"

Helmeted men cast lots in unconcern.
A thief heckled Him from the side—
Then all was over.

Night's curtain hung low.
The Scribe returned to his copy,
The soldier to his barracks,
And the thief—to Paradise.

To Paradise . . .
And there he met the dog-licked Lazarus;
And there he met the wayward son;
And there he met the forgiven harlot,
And scores of other thieves and robbers
Who marvelled and rejoiced with him
That Christ thought it fitting to die
Between two thieves.

CLASS OFFICERS

With the coming of fall, sixty-seven enthusiastic members of the class of '43 returned to Goshen College. Five new members joined us in making this year a continuation of the accomplishments, the success, and the fun of last year.

We organized with Edwin Alderfer our president; Warren Leatherman, vice-president; Helen Hoover, secretary; and Elton Gunden, treasurer. Dr. Willard Smith continued to guide our energetic group.

We shall remember our fall outing by the happy, bumpy ride in Gunden's truck to Miller's Grove. And who could forget the Little Abner party the girls gave the sophomore fellows.

We have continued our accomplishments in extra-curricular activities. The class of '43, renowned in athletics, won the soft ball tourney, tied with the Junior-Seniors for the 1940 football championship, and are tops in basket-ball. In debate we were well represented by Esther Hartzler, Carl Beck, Eugene Collins, and Howard Kauffman. Eugene Collins gave honor to our class by winning the Peace Oratorical contest of November 22.

We have enjoyed living together two years at Goshen College and we are looking forward to another year of sharing experiences on this college campus.

FRESHMEN

The Freshmen who entered Goshen College in September, 1940, assumed a very confident manner in order to conceal their bewilderment and timidity. After Freshman Days, which consisted of tests and successful socials, new friends were made and first pretenses became realities. We were now students of Goshen College; we had a job to be done, and done well! We might not excel in everything, but with all kinds of people from so many different points on the globe, we could surely do something!

Of course, we slaved and studied as all good Freshmen do, but we had a good time playing too. Although the Freshmen men's "A" team did not win the inter-class basketball tourney, it came out with an exceptionally fine showing. The women's team, however, sent the class colors of maroon and gray flying high when they came out victorious in their tourney. This was just one of the various extra-curricular activities in which the class participated.

At the beginning of the year, the Freshman banquet was an unforgettable event, as were also our get-acquainted-party in the gym and the outdoor parties which were held in the spring. All of these served to stimulate an excellent class spirit.

We have enjoyed every moment of our first year in college, and we know that the next three years will prove every bit as worth while and inspiring as was the last.

Organizations

Part of one's college education is secured in learning to work in organizations, on committees, and as leaders. Taking one's part in the various clubs and societies on the campus helps to develop poise, judgment, cooperativeness, and to provide a legitimate outlet for one's energies and talents, Goshen College has more than thirty organizations of various kinds open to student membership — a very real asset to our extra-curricular life.

"That I may know Him," was the masterpassion of St. Paul and in the light of this dauntless purpose he spent his entire life making Christ known. With the same degree of purpose the Y. M. C. A. seeks to create an atmosphere which will challenge each young man to a more confident faith and to a more personal experience with Jesus Christ.

Realizing that the best way in which to develop a mature personality is through actual experience, the Y. M. C. A. offers to all its members an opportunity for service, providing weekly prayer meetings and devotional services, special series of chapel programs and the many social activities of the campus.

The "Y" does not confine all its activities to the campus. Each week groups are sent to the White Cross Mission in Elkhart, the county jail, and to homes in North Goshen. Gospel teams frequently give programs in the neighboring churches. In activities such as these, the students gain opportunities not only to grow in ability and experience, but also to make Him known.

That an atmosphere of Christian fellowship may more fully pervade the Goshen College campus, the Y.W.C.A., in cooperation with the Y.M.C.A. and the administration, promotes a program of student activity which relates itself to the spiritual life of the individual.

The Monday evening cabinet meetings, composed of the president, secretary, treasurer, and seven committee chairmen, held in our newly decorated "Y" room, serve as a source of inspiration and encouragement for each girl to fulfill her duties as a member of the cabinet. Each chairman is responsible for certain activities of the "Y" in its attempt to reach various phases of student life. The social committee sponsors all-campus social activities, while another committee plans services of a devotional nature to develop and enrich the spiritual life of the student. The weekly devotional, prayer meetings, dining hall devotions, "The Upper Room," and the mission drive all contribute to this end. Ample opportunity to carry the Gospel of Christ to others is afforded through services held at the jail, North Goshen, and the White Cross Mission.

"To know Christ and to make him known" is truly the aim and motto of the Y. W. C. A. of Goshen College.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The group in summer school was composed of seventy-eight students. Nine states were represented. From Indiana came 38, Ohio 21, Colorado 4, Pennsylvania 7, Illinois 3, Iowa 2, and one each from Kansas, Oregon, and New York. Courses were offered in the following departments: English, music, history, sociology, biology, chemistry, geology, home economics, mathematics, Bible, elementary education, secondary education, and psychology. Mr. Leland Byler and Mrs. Paul Erb filled the vacancies made by the absence of Professor Walter Yoder and Mary Royer in the music and elementary education departments, respectively.

The people in summer school were truly students since most of them had just finished a year of either studying or teaching. Because the students were diligent workers, they needed times for physical, and thereby social, refreshment. To satisfy this angle of need, a school party was held every Friday evening. Besides this there was softball, tennis, horse-shoe, swimming, boating, hiking, and for the vocally-minded, a chorus directed by Mr. Byler. This chorus presented Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" at the end of the term. A special privilege granted to the students this summer was that of assisting in the moving of the library. Under the generalship of Mrs. Binkele and John Coffman, we moved back and forth like busy ants, succeeding in settling some 19,000 books in their new home.

To most of us this studying vacation was truly constructive, profitable, and enjoyable.

To those who, for one reason or another, do not find it possible to take a full year or more of college work at Goshen College, and yet desire the educational, social, and religious experiences of a college campus, there is offered a six-weeks course of study at the beginning of the second semester.

The 1941 Bible School, under the able leadership of President E. E. Miller and the Principal of the Bible School, D. A. Yoder, opened with an enrollment of ninety-two students, representing eight states as well as many varied interests which influenced the selection of the subjects. Eight ministers took advantage of the curriculum which was outlined especially for them this year, while many other students enrolled for one of the other two new courses, Home Economics and practical Agriculture.

In addition to regular courses, there were several socials, as well as basketball games and other sports.

Ten graduates received diplomas for completing their three-year course, and one from the Elementary Teachers Training course.

At the end of the term each Short Termer carried away with him a loyalty to Goshen College and its administration, memories of many friendships formed, and an inspiration to better serve the home church.

FOREIGN MISSIONS FELLOWSHIP

The "school with the Bible as its text" is the oldest organized division of Goshen College. Ever since Goshen College was founded, the Bible School has been rapidly growing. It was created to deepen the spiritual life of its members through a study of the Word of God and to prepare young people for service in the church. Today graduates of the school are serving in home and foreign missions, in various church institutions, and in the Gospel ministry.

Several types of Biblical education are open to the Goshen College student. Two required courses, "Introduction to Christianity" and "Fundamentals of the Christian Faith," are offered to the Freshmen and Sophomores. Many, however, desire a minor in Bible Study or perhaps a major, which consists of twenty-four semester hours. Full-time Bible students may enroll either in the two-year Christian Workers' Course, or in the four-year Bachelor of Theology (Th. B.) Course.

During the past year an excellent selection of courses was open to the Bible students, making it possible for them to take work in the following fields: Biblical Introduction, Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Languages, Systematic Theology, Church History, Homiletics, and Christian Education.

The faculty of the Bible School consisted of H. S. Bender (on leave the second semester), S. C. Yoder, Paul Mininger (on leave the first semester), and J. C. Wenger.

By studying God's Word, Bible School youth will certainly be more qualified to offer a Christian testimony to the world.

To many of you readers this may seem to be a new organization. In truth it is merely the Foreign Volunteer Band in a new frock. There have been students in former years who were deeply interested in Foreign Missions and would have liked to join the Band, but because of what the name implied, were hesitant. Under this new name any one interested in foreign mission work may comfortably join regardless of the fact that he does not feel led to be a missionary.

A new surge of interest occurred at the beginning of the second semester, when the group was confronted with the problem "To be or not to be." It wisely decided to be, and in order to assure growth, it assigned definite projects to each of its members. These projects include correspondence with the missionaries and mission boards of our own and other churches. Although the fruit of this effort will likely not appear until next year, it is sure to be of interest and benefit to the Fellowship. Other members are investigating valuable source material which Dr. S. C. Yoder has made available for this purpose.

Each month the Foreign Missions Fellowship contributes a program to the Christian Worker's Band, in addition to its own meeting. Of special significance was the Sunday afternoon at the home of Dr. Yoder. At this time he gave us an insight into the needs and life of the Mennonites in Paraguay, with the aid of the colored pictures which he himself took.

This organization has been continued with the hope that its spirit of interest will spread not only among Goshen College students, but throughout the entire church.

A fonder appreciation of the Bible, a greater love for God, a new vision of service for the Master: these are the opportunities which the Bible circle presents to its members. This organization has been designed for students of the Bible School and others interested in Bible Study. It has monthly meetings in which the above aims are carried out in programs.

Programs this year have included two illustrated lectures: one on "Our Mission Work in India" with pictures taken by Dr. Jonathan Yoder, a missionary in India; and another one, "Palestine", given by Dr. Francis Pritchard. Other programs consisted of discussions on "The Righteousness and Providence of God," and "Light from the Greek Testament".

The Bible Circle also has two outdoor breakfasts each year, one in the Autumn and one in Spring. The delicious meal is followed by a worship service among God's wonders, which prove to be a deep inspiration to each worshiper. The school year is always climaxed by a formal dinner in the dining hall annex.

Probably the most conscious and lasting feature of these activities is the rich Christian fellowship which the members of the Circle enjoy.

Youth today is being organized in all lands for all purposes. In these bands of young people lie the hopes for the future of State, Church, and Community. Nor can we, here, resist the urge of congregation, for we know that in numbers there is strength to uphold principles, and in youth, there is hope. One of the results of this tendency to organize on our campus is the Christian Worker's Band. Six-thirty seems to be a very early hour at which to go to services every Sunday morning; but what faithful member of the Christian Worker's Band couldn't tell you of a multitude of blessings he has received as an individual from such attendance! As a group of young people, we are especially interested in the activities of our church and are trying to prepare ourselves more fully to participate in its work in the future. With this purpose in mind, we have discussed "The Unfinished Tasks of the Church," the relationship of the Mennonite youth to the church and vice versa, as well as the traits of a successful Christian worker. Once a month the Foreign Missions Fellowship renders a program which widens our knowledge by giving us a view of the foreign fields. The Wednesday morning prayer meetings help us to practice one of the greatest privileges of a Christian and give us new inspiration. Time and life testimonies will reveal to us the real values of our early morning hours of fellowship.

Yes, sixty-thirty is an early hour, and the group in the large chapel hall does seem small. Yet even a casual visitor would be forced to confess that with this group resides strength and promise for the future church.

MENNONITE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Mennonite Historical Society was founded in 1924 for the promotion of interest in Mennonite history. Each year it holds three or four regular meetings for the presentation of lectures. The Mennonite Historical Library, housed in the college library of which it is a part, is actively sponsored by the society. The work of the Mennonite Archives, housed adjacently to the historical library, is closely integrated with that of the historical society. Its most significant work during the past year has been the permanent arrangement and classification of the papers of the late John F. Funk, pioneer Mennonite publisher. The most important work of the society is the promotion of research and publication through its journal, the Mennonite Quarterly Review, and its series of books, Studies in Anabaptist and Mennonite History. The most recent volume in this series is John Umble's, Ohio Mennonite Sunday Schools, 1941.

PEACE SOCIETY

The staunch standards of peace which have won a world-wide reputation for the Mennonite Church, are also reflected in this campus society. Although it is one of the most recently formed organizations, it has already won a prominent place for itself in the college program. The monthly meetings consisted of timely subjects which are today vital to youth everywhere, especially Christian youth. They were of unusual significance to men of draft age, for there were explanations by faculty members on the information needed to fill out the questionnaires to be given to conscientious objectors. There were also discussions on the civilian service projects to be carried out. The Armistice Day program sponsored by the Society was an address delivered by Dr. Guy F. Hershberger on the topic, "The Christian in the World Today."

The organization has indeed endeavored "to promote an interest in the Christian teaching of peace, to encourage and support all forms of peace work."

AURORA LITERARY SOCIETY

The Auroras again began a very successful year by driving "Forward" to receive twenty-eight new members, which raised the total membership to fifty-seven.

In the Fall the Avon-Aurora outing along the Elkhart River served to better acquaint the members of the two societies. The Avon-Aurora Public Program, which was presented later in the year, depicted scenes of various types of Christmas observance. The weekly programs were especially designed to satisfy the various interests of the members.

One of the outstanding achievements of the year was the redecoration of Aurora Hall by repainting it, and installing new window shades and modern light fixtures. The newly adopted Aurora emblem was prominently placed in the front of the Hall.

In addition to winning the annual spelling match and the Men's Discussion Contest, which are annually sponsored by the Auroras, the society was also victorious in the inter-society football, touch football, and basketball games.

May the characteristic Aurora spirit continue to go "Forward" and be a vital part of Goshen College.

ADELPHIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

When this school year opened, the center of attraction for we loyal Adelphians was our new hall. With that as a stimulus, we have been able to complete a very successful year of activity. Our new members presented the first few programs in accordance with our motto, "We learn to do by doing." Subsequent highlights were our Adelphian-Vesperian outings, the annual auto show, and some "real" athletic encounters.

Exchanges of programs with the Auroras and Vesperians added tangible social benefits. With our sister society, we presented the Adelphian-Vesperian concert, one of the outstanding student programs of the year, a program of favorite classical music and selections from the opera, "Martha." In a conjoint meeting with the Vesperians in the spring, the value of continuing the literary as such was questioned and discussed, resulting in increased enthusiasm for both societies. We as Adelphians came to the conclusion that our society does continue to aid in the development of well rounded personalities, and contributes its part in preparing students for service through creative expression and wholesome activities.

One day last Fall Goshen College students awakened to the fact that there were numerous spots of yellow dotting the entire campus. Those spots of color were no other than the new Avon sweaters being proudly worn by their owners.

The Avons began the year with only nineteen members, but by merit of their sweaters and good works, they can now boast fifty members.

This year has left behind it many pleasant memories for all Avons, among them the Avon-Aurora Public Program which portrayed various types of Christmas celebrations. The social activities of the year included holiday parties, the literary reunion at Thanksgiving, and the Spring Festival. The annual Poetry Reading Contest, which is annually sponsored by the Avon Society, was won by an Avon, Genevieve Warner. The weekly meetings were made interesting and stimulating by the splendid cooperation of society members and program committee.

In both social and literary activities the Avons have striven to live up to their theme and motto, "Esse quam videri"—"To be rather than to seem."

AVON LITERARY SOCIETY

Last fall the Vesperians welcomed twenty-nine new members into their society, making a total membership of seventy-three. The newcomers were considered full-fledged members only after they had displayed their talents before their fellow-Vesperians at the first meeting of the year. The weekly programs were varied by outside speakers who brought with them vivid descriptions and interesting customs of England, Hawaii, and Mexico. Other meetings consisted of book reviews, practical suggestions for "Good Grooming", and conjoint meetings with the Avons and Adelphians.

The public program in November, a Musicale, was given by talented members of the Vesperian and Adelphian societies. Excerpts from the opera, Martha, provided the leading feature of the evening. Other social activities were a Christmas party, the Fall Outing, and a Valentine tea. The society's literary ability was again demonstrated by the winning of the spelling match, sponsored by the Avons. Its athletic prowess was asserted by retention of the basketball title.

In accordance with the motto, "Excelsior", the Vesperian goals have been placed high, and with the will and talents to attain them, "ever onward and upward we go!"

MAPLE LEAF STAFF

Burning candles at both ends, collecting receipts, advertising widely and wildly, notifying, recording, writing, complaining, begging—this is the year-round business of the Maple Leaf Staff:—all to the end that students may, by Commencement, have a book to be autographed! To keep the cost low, but to produce a superior book is the tricky problem confronting the staff each year, and we have by no means escaped. Whether or not this problem has been solved, we hold it a privilege to take part in the preparation of another of those famous yearbooks. We are glad to have been able to keep alive, for still another year, the Maple Leaf—one of Goshen's most precious traditions.

THE MEN BEHIND THE BOOK

CAMPUS NEWS HOUNDS

"A newspaper that is a newspaper" was the driving slogan of this year's Record staff. Editing this paper on a more strictly journalistic basis than has been employed for many years, Mr. Henard's idea was to give to the students fresh information with the distribution of each issue. That he and his able staff have succeeded, is attested by the increasing popularity of the Record, not only among college students but among alumni and friends of the college as well. Stimulating its readers to active thinking on religious goals, campus problems, and world affairs, and including a bit of the spice of our student social world, this newspaper has become not only a living part of our organization, and a valiant crusader, but truly—a "Newspaper."

This chorus was organized several years ago to provide an opportunity for musical expression and development. Any tune-carrier is an eligible member. This year B. F. Hartzler conducted our chorus the first semester, with Doris Swartzentruber as accompanist. Folk music was our main study until we began practicing Handel's Messiah. We joined the A Cappella Chorus to sing this oratorio during the Christmas season.

Second semester the group was conducted by Paul Erb. We spent most of our time on two projects: preparing our own public program given in chapel in May, and practicing Gaul's "Holy City." We again joined the A Cappella Chorus to sing this oratorio.

LADIES' CHORUS

MEN'S CHORUS

"O, sing unto the Lord!" It is this compelling joy which brings twenty-six voices into harmony each Wednesday and Friday evening at five o'clock. These are the hours we shall still remember when the memories of classrooms and outings are dull. We are actively interested, not only in hearing good music, but in singing it. "Here by Babylon's Wave," "Sanctus," "Hear the Sledges With the Bells," "The Desert Song of Peace"—these songs become a part of us, and because they mean much to us we share them with others in chapel services and programs at home, and in the churches of the states which we tour. Besides finding an outlet for worship, we have developed in chorus a keener appreciation of the work of great masters of church and classical music. Then too, we have learned better how to live and work in an organization having high standards both of musical form and Christian character.

"Declare His works with singing." The power of the Gospel of song often exceeds the influence of the Gospel as preached from the pulpit. The Men's chorus organizes each year to sing the praises of God in the works of great music composers. The college recognizes a growing popular desire for the exalting music of the blended harmony of male voices, and sponsors the Men's Chorus to meet this public interest, in connection with the A Cappella Chorus, of which all the men are members. This group meets regularly twice each week, Tuesday and Thursday afternoon, for rehearsal of sacred and semi-sacred songs. Their music brings an attitude of added praise and worship in their occasional appearances as part of the college chapel services. Throughout the year the Men's Chorus also sings at special programs and at various church services in Goshen. They present a group of numbers as part of every program in the annual Spring Chorus Tour. Included in their repertoire are the praise song, "Great and Glorious," the touching "Under the Mango Tree," "At the Close of the Day," time-honored "Old Man River," and many others.

"Come before His presence with singing!"

Resolved: That the nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent union.

The 1942 debate season was highlighted by the perfect record set by Robert Kreider and Charles Ainlay of the Manchester Tournament in triumphing over all six of their opponents, a feat which no Goshen College "A" debate team had hitherto performed. The "A" Division teams consisting of Esther Hartzler and Genevieve Warner, John Liechty and Ralph Hernley, affirmative, and Harold Oyer and Clarence Hooley, Ainlay and Kreider, negative, won ten out of twenty-four debates. G. C. wranglers also participated in debates with Notre Dame, Asbury, and Olivet, as well as in the Novice Tournament at Indiana University. Kreider, Oyer, Liechty, Hernley broke all previous records at the Madison tournament where they took 5 out of 6 debates.

The debate season opened with the Sophomores taking the decision over the Freshmen in two interclass debates. Howard Kauffman and Eugene Collins defeated Albert Miller and Ernest Shank, while Esther Hartzler and Carl Beck took the decision over Norman Bauman and Wilfred Ulrich.

Four teams attended the Non-Decision Tournament at Indiana University in Bloomington.

Two affirmative and two negative teams participated in the Manchester Tournament, which crowned the debate season for the "B" League. The first affirmative team, consisting of Areta Graber and Howard Kauffman, won over Indiana State Normal, while the second, composed of Albert Miller and Ernest Shank, defeated Huntington and Indiana State Teacher's College. The first negative team, Carl Beck and Eugene Collins, came out victorious over Indiana State while the second negative team, Norman Bauman and Wilfred Ulrich, won over Findley and Manchester.

The past year has held valuable opportunities for all who are new in the debating field, as well as those who are familiar with it.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN

To campus students, Le Cercle Francais is an organization composed of students who are interested in the study of the French language. To French Club members, it means a pleasant evening of association with other French enthusiasts.

A significant amendment to the Constitution was added this year, which makes possible the entrance of any first semester French student, as well as any student who has previously studied French. Because of this change, twenty new members were added.

Study is made during the year of French life, literature, and current events of modern France. Correspondence with French citizens, and talks by various faculty members keep the club members informed about European affairs. To help the group better to understand the conditions in France, Professors Levi Hartzler and Karl Kreider spoke of the French customs and conditions in France as they witnessed them at the beginning of the war. The singing of French songs has also added much enjoyment to club meetings. One rainy Club evening was spent in listening to French music. Professor Walter Yoder played several numbers depicting the serene French life, and several illustrating the "fete" occasions.

The annual after-dinner program given by Le Cercle Francais provided much entertainment both for the members and for the bewildered audience.

The chief social attraction of the year was the Christmas party held at the home of Miss Lois Gunden, the sponsor. A unique feature of each meeting is the serving of refreshments by the social committee.

"Lobe den Herren, den mächtigen König der Erde." Thus the second-year German students, bearing candles, sang the shadowed audience into the Christmas spirit at one of the high-point programs of the flourishing German club. Expression and enjoyment in German art, literature, song, and cultural heritage is provided in Der Deutsche Verein.

The regular meetings, usually occurring the first Monday in the month, may take the form of an informal sing, in which case "Du, du liegst mir im Herzen", "Gott ist die Liebe", "Heiden Röslein", and "Ich bete an die Macht der Liebe" are always favorites. In this way the charm of the deutsche Liebesgesänge and the power of the Lobesgesänge are heartily experienced by each member. Or the program may be an evening with the German ballads. Everyone enjoyed hearing "Eduard, Eduard"—the German equivalent of our English "Lord Randall My Son". A colorful experience was the hour spent with Max and Moritz, the progenitors of the Katzenjammer Kids. As Herr Sudermann acquainted us with his Wilhelm Busch picture books, even dignified college students relapsed into a rare state of childhood humor, enriched by German witticisms.

Der deutsche Verein has prospered this year, with an increased membership and an enlivened interest to its credit. We could say that part of this bulk is due to the fact that Herr Sudermann requires his classes to attend, were it not that the excellence of the programs themselves provides an adequate stimulus for attendance.

Some thirty girls from one month to another gather together to learn of some new tasty salad, some Christmas gift suggestions, the better way of decorating or furnishing our rooms, or the home economics of foreign peoples. It is the purpose of the club to acquaint the girls with the best and most practical use of home economics in our everyday life. Our meetings vary. At one time we heard how the English and other peoples of the European continent cook and manage their meals, through a very interesting and vivid talk by Mrs. Carl Kreider on "Foods in Europe." At another time we held a helpful conversation with each girl contributing ideas for home-made Christmas gifts. We all profited from the suggestions and realized the economy behind them. Other programs centered around home furnishing, personality, clothing, or professional pursuits. Socials were given, and afternoon teas at which we entertained other groups. With the cooperation of the Snack Shop, a new enterprise was embarked upon this year. Members of the club baked pies and cakes to be offered for sale by Shoozy and his helpers. The profit realized from this undertaking is to be set aside for the redecoration of the Home Economics rooms.

As we girls go out to teach, establish homes, or into other fields of work, we will make use of the broad practical knowledge we have received from each meeting.

The question has recently been raised as to whether photography is art. If you will ask a member of the Camera Clique what he or she thinks about this question, you will no doubt be assured that photography is art. The entire process from beginning to end constitutes a process in which the esthetic sense of a person is brought into use, and the resulting picture will reflect the degree of artfulness attained by the artist photographer.

As members of the Camera Clique, each person receives information in the form of lectures and reading material which will help him achieve greater art in his pictures. Since the benefit or success of this process is directly proportional to the amount of time or work spent on the perfection of the art, the responsibility for individual growth comes through the individual himself. The main purpose of the Camera Clique, then, is to help each member attain a higher level of perfection. For this purpose the club maintains a dark room in the basement of the Science Hall in which much of the actual work of processing is done. After the picture has been taken, with due regard to composition and exposure, the film is developed and prints made from it in the dark room. A picture may be improved considerably in this process; so, in order to attain the fullest measure of art, one must also perfect the dark-room technique.

The past and present success of its members bears testimony to the efficiency brought about by the club.

NURSES' CLUB

The Nurses Club was organized in January of 1940. Registered nurses who are students at Goshen College and Mennonite Registered Nurses living in the community, are eligible for membership. The aim of the organization is to maintain an active interest in nursing and to keep abreast of new developments in the nursing field. Also it aims to stimulate interest in health among the student body. The Club has sponsored the Review of several films relating to Personal Hygiene and Public Health. A subscription to the American Journal of Nursing has been donated to the library. The Club maintains a placement service on a small scale. Calls for nurses are referred to this organization. The majority of our members spend at least a few days in active nursing practicing some time during the school year, either on or off the campus. Those members who are in college usually return to full time graduate nurse service in the summer.

Dr. H. C. Amstutz, College Physician, has been elected club sponsor. Meetings are held on the third Monday of each month during the college year.

GOSPEL TEAMS

Gospel team activity this year was very notable. For the first time three teams were sent out, and also for the first time a ladies' quartet made a trip. Although they would have enjoyed spending their vacation at home, twenty-nine young people gladly set out on December 21 to witness for Christ and the Gospel. One group led by Ralph Hernley traveled west, visiting churches at Kouts, Indiana; Freeport, Sterling, and Metamora, Illinois; and Iowa City, Wellman, Manson, South English, and Wayland, Iowa. A second group with Dwight Stoltzfus as leader went east, stopping at Wadsworth, Orrville, Walnut Creek, Kidron, Martins Creek, Oak Grove, and Beech churches in Ohio, and Masontown, Scottdale, Johnstown, Springs, Martinsburg, and Belleville, Pennsylvania. The third group under the leadership of Howard Zehr traveled through Canada, giving programs at Baton, Kitchener, Blair, Preston, St. Jacobs, Waterloo, Breslau, Elmira, and Vineland, Ontario; Clarence Center, New York; Meadville, Pennsylvania; and Aurora and North Lima, Ohio. The themes presented were "Christians on the March," "Christ Meeting Human Needs," and "Follow Me." Throughout the year the various teams also gave a number of programs in surrounding communities, and made a number of week-end trips into Ohio and Illinois.

Sports

Archery, badminton, softball, ping-pong, shuffleboard, basketball, baseball, tennis — what is your favorite sport? You will find almost every type of recreational athletics somewhere on the campus. Goshen College offers her students a well-rounded intramural athletic program which aims to include every student. The frequent use of the adequate equipment provided attests the success of our plan.

MEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Realizing the need of keeping the physical body in the best of condition, the Men's Athletic Association of Goshen College, in co-operation with the Faculty Athletic Committee, presents the opportunity to satisfy that need in a rich intramural program. "Strike three"—softball or baseball; "first and ten"—football; "side out"—volleyball; "traveling, blue out"—basketball; and "on your marks" —track; these are familiar terms to the participants and followers of major sports on the campus. Competition in the form of individual participation is presented in tennis, badminton, tumbling, shuffleboard, archery, skiing, swimming, ping pong, handball, and horseshoes.

Interest in various athletic events is kept at a high pitch throughout the year by means of class competition. The Sophomores came out on top in softball and basketball and tied with the Juniors-Seniors in football. The volleyball championship was won by the Sophomores. The awarding of from ten to twenty letters and two honor sweaters each year presents a big incentive for participation in the intramural program. This year's activities were directed by Roman Gingerich first semester and Ralph Hernley second semester, with Dr. Glen R. Miller as Faculty Advisor.

MEN'S LITERARY TEAMS

Traditional rivals in many activities, including sports, the Adelphian and Aurora Literary Societies met on the basketball floor again this past year, delegating the competition to the teams representing each society. The Auroras have had the good fortune of claiming a great number of varsity players as members of their society. In the first inter-society encounter of 1941, the advantage of the fine Aurora team was challenged by a determined Adelphian quintet which matched score for score with their opponents to the final gong of the game, but lost in a three minute overtime period, despite the desperate cheers of fellow society members and sister Vesperians.

The second game was a heart-breaker for the Adelphian representatives who lost again to the faster Aurora men. With these two victories, the Auroras again stand at the top for the fourth consecutive basketball season.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Friendly athletic competition offers a fine outlet for the wholesome class rivalry which is a part of the spirit of Goshen College. Basketball is watched by all students and faculty members with the greatest of interest. This year, as in previous years, a carefully planned and well supervised league and tournament has been played off, in which four class teams competed. The Freshman Class entered an A and B team; the Sophomores backed a single squad; the Juniors and Seniors together made up a quintet. Each team played fifteen games, meeting each opponent five times in the league schedule. Competition was keen throughout the basketball season and the bleachers were usually filled by spectators and cheering squads of class members who enthusiastically encouraged their favorites. The Sophs came through the season with but one loss, thus assuring their championship in both the league playoffs and the final tournament.

With the first nip of cold weather the girls began playing basketball. At the end of the tournament the Frosh A and Junior-Senior teams were tied for first place. A final game was played with the Frosh A emerging champs of the season. All the girls were impressed by the unusually fine quality of sportsmanship among the players this year. While all teams were in part responsible for this spirit, we feel that special credit should go to that plucky six of Snapp's. These girls, after their final victory, made their arch-enemies, the Junior-Seniors, guests at a special table in the dining hall, treating them royally afterwards by a group visit to the Snack Shop. The Junior-Senior team also proved its interest in the game regardless of the score, by reversing its players for the benefit of the losing side. The resulting efforts of the awkward guard-playing forwards and the still more awkward forward-playing guards provided entertainment for the entire audience, including the players.

WOMAN'S BASKETBALL

WOMEN'S LITERARY TEAMS

Again the Vesperians emerged on top in the inter-society basketball tournament. The Avons took an easy victory in the first game of the season. The humiliated Vesperians decided to do something about the whole thing. And they did! The second game was no less than thrilling. The Avons stayed one or two points ahead until in the last half-minute. Then a Vesperian hit a basket, giving her side a one point lead which it held to the finish. The last game was almost as exciting as being admitted to the N. C. A. All loyal Avons, Auroras, Vesperians, and Adelphians were on hand to cheer their teams on to victory. Again both teams fought as they had never fought before, and again the Vesperians, by a sheer lead of one point, retained their title.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

"The object of this organization shall be to promote a high standard of athletics among women of Goshen College." "All women students interested in athletics at Goshen College are eligible for associate membership." "There shall be an annual spring meeting for the presentation of awards for athletic achievement given by the college." These are excerpts from the constitution of the Women's Athletic Association. The W. A. A., with the Faculty Athletic Committee, endeavors to sponsor a healthy recreational program for all women students of Goshen College. Athletic activities promoted by this organization include basketball, softball, volleyball, soccer, tennis, badminton, ping pong, horse-shoe, swimming, and shuffle board. With this variety of activities, it is possible for every girl to participate in some form of health recreation, which the Association feels is a vital part in college life.

It seemed desirable and profitable to lay particular stress on recreational work, on individual and dual games which can be used after leaving school. With this in mind, perpetual tournaments in ping pong, badminton, and shuffleboard were organized early in the school year and were continued until spring.

Four softball teams were organized in the fall. The Freshman "A" team carried away the high honors with the Sophomores close behind. As winter approached, four basketball teams sprouted and grew rapidly. Both the Freshman "A" team and the Junior-Senior team proved themselves worthy of praise.

The W. A. A. sponsored the annual Play Day program on February Fourth. Approximately one-hundred girls participated.

The W. A. A. is playing an important role in athletics at Goshen College. Come on, let's make it bigger and better!

CALENDAR

Goshen College campus suddenly ceases to be the deadest spot in Indiana as the class of '44 takes possession. Rumor has it that there are four girls to every boy. At any rate, they are here for better or worse. Getting acquainted with Goshen College seems to involve, among other things, writing one's name ad infinitum—and also ad nauseam—taking a series of tests that must have been planned by a Sadist, and of course the old, old game of fitting names to faces.

Tuesday, Sept. 10 is the big day we've been waiting for — starting off auspiciously with the registration lines. Goshen College, we find, is situated in the plague belt; an infantile paralysis epidemic keeps everyone on the campus. Tantalizing stories reach us of Miller's redecorated. Everybody's room is "simply a mess, but I can't go down town even to buy curtains!"

Anyhow, there's the new library to investigate; a tomb-like silence prevails, broken occasionally by the thunder scrape of a chair being moved on the concrete floor. Public reaction makes tip-toeing almost compulsory. And — THERE IS NO TALKING to speak of. Many of us see in this the passing of a grand social institution embodied in the old library. Possibly the new order will have its compensations, however. Mr. Shakespeare has a new complexion, we notice.

President Miller coply points to the student lounge and snack shop as the places for those momentous meetings which are always supposed to be taking place on the Goshen College campus. Oh yes — what do you think of the Freshmen?

Thursday, Sept. 12 — Thimble party and Men's mixer — girls break loose and play children's games — it's hard to get some of these Freshmen to drop their dignity.

Lois Burck — "Clarence's sister, you know" — gives a demonstration of drop-the-handkerchief as played by an expert.

Boys play football out in the wilds somewhere.

Friday, September 13 — Oh happy day! Quarantine is lifted. Curtains are bought. Miller's is viewed with approval in all its glory of red leather and chromium.

Get-acquainted social tonight. The one sure way to break up a drought in northern Indiana is for Goshen College to plan some sort of outdoor activity. Student body adjourns to a real farm — weather conditions make the inside of the barn the better place to be. Relays and games — group leaders try to stir up an interest in formal introductions, offering their services as go-betweens — a slight variation on the old pairing-off system — eats. Ignoring the opinions of a few hay-fever victims who got marooned without an adequate supply of Kleenes, the evening is an unqualified success.

Wednesday, Sept. 18.—This, my children, is the date of the greatest Senior sneak in history — but definitely! Seniors leave unostentatiously sometime after dinner, and it is an hour or so before they are missed. "Ah well," say the Juniors, "there are compensations" — Joe Garber, with a simple and childlike faith that is truly touching, leaves his car behind! A select group of Junior boys greet the dawn some miles away from Goshen College. Myrian Sieber walks the straight and narrow way for one day; others backslide after breakfast. Martha Smucker burns up the road between Goshen and Elkhart at intervals, recalling the days when it cost $ .25 just to take this same car uptown. Harvey Birky unexpectedly exhibited a very pretty talent for prevarication, when questioned as to the destination of those comforters he was hauling off. We hardly know how to classify Cleland Gunden's definition of his cargo — "peaches", he said! Sammy Miller returns ahead of schedule on Thursday; we think he's foolish. Other Seniors stay and look at the moon.

Dean Bender tells of European experiences in chapel. After this, we think we're pretty lucky to have him back home, safe, again! The Seniors return, complexions wildly scarlet, hair worn in best haystack style, and insufferable! Life at Goshen College settles back into the old grind.

Monday, Sept. 23. — Much tension is felt today. Four o'clock draws near and old students adjust strained smiles across their faces. Today the literary drives are to be held! Those few surviving Avons grab the limelight at four sharp by bursting out in loud yellow sweaters, labeled "Avon" across the back. Mildred Hess does all right by the Vesperians with a Pennsylvania-Dutch reading; a type-writer orchestra is the Avon's contribution to cultural uplift on the Goshen College campus; Warren Miller's brilliant political discussion ought to make history for the Auroras — and Wade Jones does up his Jew reading in virtuoso style for future Adelphians. The outcome of all this activity is satisfactory to practically everyone with the possible exception of Pres. and Mrs. Miller. Avons take orders for more sweaters.

Wednesday, Sept. 25. — Ainlay is elected president of the class of "41" AGAIN!

Friday, Sept. 27. — Class social tonight. Seniors have a treasure hunt and world premier of that sensational screen extravaganza, "The Senior Sneak of '41" — excitement, thrills, romance! "Graveyard Inn" takes the Juniors to its bosom and introduces them to the weighty problem of toasting angels on horseback. The feather pie was delicious as was the heavenly stabel, black brew, spuds en gasoline, and that spicy seasoning, congealed blood. Sophomores go on a treasure hunt at Miller's Grove only to find that the sole reward for all this frantic endeavor is a bag of Willkie pins! Cheeseburgers hold a prominent place on the bill of fare and the trip to and from in Gunden's truck could be classified under recreation. — The Freshmen stay at home and act civilized.

Monday, Sept. 30. — Anna Cocanour angles for fish in the fountain, weird hair-dos are the order of the day, fellows get seated at the table by girls, Willard Schrock treats Miss Good,—Oh yes!—new members are being initiated into their respective literaries.

Wednesday, Oct. 2.—Herewith begin the annual operations involved in taking pictures for the Maple Leaf. Clarence Burck stands beside the camera and looks important, as editors of the Maple Leaf have done since time immemorial. The usual rash of amateur photographers breaks out, Mr. Lacey repeats again those old, familiar jokes, everybody adjust those carefully practiced smiles — "now, still!" Mr. Lacy admonishes, and "Just let 'er blow!" as a wind rearranges about half the coiffures at a crucial moment.

Thursday, Oct. 3. — Ritz Trumpeteers open the Goshen concert season! The less said about them the better!

Monday, Oct. 7. — No, it did not rain. The literaries held their annual fall outings.

Friday, Oct. 11. — Hartzler and Ainlay support Norman Thomas in their column in the "Record." There are at least three more of us behind you, boys; the erring brethren and sisters are predominately pro-Willkie. Sisters All and the Man Hunt are held tonight. The former function proceeds in its usual, pleasant, lady-like way; the man hunt is quite a bit more exciting — Auroras prove the more elusive.

Monday, Oct. 14. — A constructive Economic and Political Program for a Durable Peace," a lecture by E. Raymond Wilson and first number on the lecture series, interests those who did not come primarily to see or be seen.

Wednesday, Oct. 23. — Comes the payoff and the Seniors finally get that banquet owed them by the Juniors for sneak technique. Tables, set to suit the simple tastes of the guests of honor, groan under large tins of sauerkraut, jars of mustard and catsup, tin pans of wieners, tin cups, paper plates, and bread in wrappers. After-dinner program, toastmastered by Engle, includes and impromptu number by the Seniors: — "Neah, neah said the little fox" with slight alterations, assorted music, poetry-reading in the vagabond mood, and a skit inspired by Huck Hernley's little celluloid production; Jake Heatwole resolves the ethical question raised by "Diz" Gunden's odd statement when he explains, backed by Noah Webster, that peach is a drupe (fancy spelling) with yellow flesh and fuzz. Fannie Schrock reveals a very astonishing rhyming ability.

Friday, Oct. 25. — Yes girls, tonight's the night to view Coffman Hall — from the inside — if you're not going to see Goshen and Elkhart high schools play the big game of the season. Nelson Springer exhibits talent that should get him a part in a musical comedy. Other skits are a big success too.

Sunday, Oct. 27 — Sunday, Nov. 3. — President Milo Kauffman, from Hesston College, holds a series of revival meetings. "In the divisions of Reuben there were great searchings of heart."

Thursday, Oct. 31. — The familiar face of one of his cows greets Prof. H. Harold Hartzler as he approaches his class room in the Science Hall on the morning of Nov. 1. Who did it? Futile question! Bicycles roost in trees; Kulp Hall inmates have water fights; Hallowe'en should come more often.

Sunday, Nov. 3. — Students are invited to dinner at homes in the community. This gesture of courtesy is appreciated by all of us. Paul Blosser and Hugh King dry dishes; nothing like making oneself at home!

Monday, Nov. 4 — Thursday, Nov. 7. — Courtesy Week is ushered in by Prof. Smith's chapel talk. Fannie Shrock discourses earnestly on the subject "Please don't make it easy for me to be rude!" on Tuesday. "Y" Membership committee and assorted Freshman girls give a skit on Wednesday, showing Goshen College "before" and "after" courtesy week — presumable. Anna Lou Hershberger does unsanitary things with chewing gum, Dorothy Snapp acts up at the table, and Ruby Fisher shows how a lady does not enter chapel.

Verna Oyer is narrator. Courtesy is even the subject of conjoint devotional on Thursday.

Friday, Nov. 8. — A dimly-lit assembly hall welcomes the public to a Vesperian-Adelphian program, composed of musical talent from the two literaries. First part of the program is adequately taken care of by vocal quartets, trios, and solos, and a piano solo by Thelma Miller; second part consists of excerpts from Flowtow's "Martha", climaxed by the Spinning song in which Jim Byler attempts to teach Katherine Mumaw how to spin, while Helen Hoover expresses amusement in a soprano obligato that makes us gasp — applause is resounding.

Wednesday, Nov. 13. — "Speak up Ike, and 'spress yourself", Miss Hattie Cartman exclaims, demonstrating a technique that achieves results no Goshen College co-ed could hope to attain as Mr. John Burdette bursts into song. This is the night of the Burdette Ensemble concert and we are all amused and pleased. Especially noteworthy is Mr. Burdette's rendition of "Ol' Man River."

Thursday, Nov. 21. — Homecoming gets under way with increasingly hysterical reunions in Kulp Hall and the masculine equivalent in Coffman Hall — romance on G. C. campus is given a boost by the presence of certain people — in the chapel hall, each new arrival is scanned eagerly — hymns are sung with more than the usual amount of feeling — everyone gets up-to-date about everyone else — alumni are properly impressed by campus improvements — the banquet goes on in a dimly lighted dining hall besprinkled with stars, telescopes, and white-coated Freshman boys who demonstrate improved methods of food distribution (we had our qualms sometimes, as to the safety of the plan) — Goshen College again benefits from the service of that perfect toastmaster, Tilman Smith, and an extra-good lot of stories are told about faculty members. The chorus program in the evening includes an Amish tune hashed and rehashed, and Prof's particular little number "Knocking."

Friday, Nov. 22. — Classes go on "as usual", under highly unnatural conditions. Junior Steiner's very special guest makes an entirely unscheduled and rather prolonged visit to the Health Center. Eugene Collins wins in the eliminations for the state peace Oratorical contest with his oration, "War is Logical." Junior Senior-Soph touch football game played in the afternoon, with distressingly few casualties. Dean Dennis, of Northwestern U., gives an interesting lecture on "Our Incredible World" in the evening.

Saturday, Nov. 23. — Literary reunions show Freshmen what it was like in the good old days.

Shirley and Lois Erb and the rest of the alumni girls clean up on the varsity team in the women's game, but the varsity boys lead the alumni by so safe a margin that it ceases to be interesting. So opens the basketball season at Goshen College.

Shoozy's tumbling team puts on an exhibition. Warren Miller shows what can be done if one is double-jointed. We thought Dick Gerber would break his neck — but he didn't.

Virginia Stalter shows up at last at the musicale. Assorted quartettes appear. A string trio gives an excellent performance — to the accompaniment of much seat-squeaking and program-rattling in the balcony. Adelphians and Vesperians repeat last half of their public program; Eunice remembers Plunkett's name this time.

Friday, Dec. 6. — We are reminded of the approach of Christmas as the Avons and Auroras present their public program. Carollers, the family of Robert Hartzler and Lola Shertz, waits, merry-makers in an inn — wasn't Martha Smucker a fetching "waitress"? — and a church with candles, as well as a tableau of the Nativity scene represent different aspects of the subject.

Yes — "fourteen more days 'til vacation"!

Monday, Dec. 9. — Rev. Paul M. Brosy starts Bible Study Week in chapel with an extremely interesting exposition of a part of the book of Ezekiel.

Thursday, Dec. 12. — Amateur fortune tellers set up business, and girls everywhere speculate about the initial of a future husband. Ella May Weaver says it's the real McCoy — we know how it came out for her! — Ethics class discusses it and does not reach a conclusion, except that Dr. Wenger says if it really tells the truth he wouldn't get involved in it!

Friday, Dec. 13. — Fresh-Soph debate was held tonight. Judges decision called it unorthodox. We wouldn't know about that but frankly we were a lot more worried when all that crepe paper started coming unwound from the table legs than we were about the outcome of the debate. Oh yes, an amateur political prophet predicted that Roosevelt might possibly not be re-elected again, come the next election.

Jr. Sr.-Freshman basketball game followed. Jr. Sr's combated superior vocal power of the Freshman with cow-bells and the old dinner bell. A good time was had by all.

Sunday, Dec. 15. — Chorus goes to North Manchester to help present the "Messiah." Every one enjoys it except those poor, helpless males who sat on their side of the lounge room and bewailed the "Mennonitish" division of the crowd into male and female.

Friday, Dec. 20. — Here at last! — the last night before the next morning! "One more day 'til vacation!" "Messiah" is enthusiastically presented after which some few hardy souls go carolling. "Parting is such sweet sorrow" for some people — two whole weeks! Packing and departures go on at all sorts of weird hours.

Tuesday, Jan. 7. — We never would have believed it, but isn't it grand to be back! Short-termers have already taken over the place, having registered on Monday.

Thursday, Jan. 9. — Miss Haskins, soprano, and Mr. Korsuch, pianist, present a concert at the high school that sends us home delighted. Miss Haskins has superior stage appearance and voice, and Mr. Korsuch interprets Debussy, in spite of mechanical difficulties in the piano involved, in a way that makes it hard for us to get back to earth afterward.

Friday, Jan. 10. — To-night we officially meet the Short-termers at the Mid-winter Social; contrary to what we had expected, although games and skating down at the Dam are the order of the evening, we do not get cold. Yes, this is another feather in the cap of the "Y" social committee — or maybe we should say "star in the crown."

Monday, Jan. 13. — The presence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. White, returned missionaries from China, makes today "China Day" as they successfully rid some of us of the idea that the Jade Kingdom is an uncivilized sort of place. Illustrated lecture in the evening, together with photographs displayed during the day are instrumental in doing this. Mrs. White's explanation of the difference between "man" and "woman" was lucidity itself.

Friday, Jan. 24. — Sunday, Jan. 26. — Dr. M. C. Lehman is on the campus and gives us, at various meetings, an idea of suffering in Europe brought on through war; he leaves us feeling that it'll be a long time before we'll be sorry for ourselves again.

Friday, Jan. 31. — Harold Mishler's talk, "Let Yourself Go" with demonstrations, wins him first place in the Men's Discussion contest. The Aurora's had the right idea when they thought of making him unwrap the prize in full view of everyone — some people's curiosities suffer less.

Thursday, Feb. 6. — N. C. A. on the Goshen College campus stands for either "North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools" or "New Cleaning Association" as preparations are made for the inspection of the place by Dr. Schwitalla and President Gage. Holes in plaster are patched, suits of those in authority are sent to the cleaners — Dean Bender buys a new suit — all sorts of out-of-the-way corners are cleaned, and the initials are washed off the lamp shades in the Snack Shop booths.

Thursday, Feb. 6. — Chapel Choir from Capitol University gives a fine program of A Capella chorus music. Prof. Yoder listens wistfully as they give some numbers sung also by the Goshen College Chorus; we are all inspired — and given a few ideas as well.

Friday, Feb. 7. — They're here! Ladies Chorus trots out shrouds to sing in chapel. Everybody keeps his fingers crossed.

Wednesday, Feb. 12 — Sunday, Jan. 16. — Minister's Week and Christian Conference.

Friday, Feb. 14. — St. Valentines Day is well celebrated on Goshen College campus; the floral delivery truck drives up to Kulp Hall at least twice during the day.

Thursday, Feb. 20. — The Gala Concert Ensemble — Carlos and Marjorie Salzedo, harpists, a flutist, and celloist — present perhaps the best concert in this year's series. Even daters listen!

Friday, Feb. 28.—With charming simplicity, the second floor skit seemed to take the prize for the evening. Grace Sieber with her family — Gertie Mininger, in her apt role of a school-teacher, and yes, that toothless hag, Glennis Birky. As for the first floor skit — we'd suspected it all along, Wade.

Monday, March 5. — Tryouts for traveling chorus start — with startling results; it would appear that the crying need is for more chorus members who have the slightest idea what it's all about.

Friday, March 7. — One of Goshen College's sons returns for the week-end; crowd of excited boys make welcoming committee — John Leatherman's name is on everyone's lips. We know at least one girl, new on the campus this year, who declared that she simply must meet him. Boy's dorm is rechristened "John D. Leatherman Hall".

Miss Baker gives a violin recital, very good, though not well attended.

Monday, March 10. — Kulp Hall is visited by a somewhat quixotic gentleman who desires a bed and a garden rake. Anna Lou Hershberger, minus a front tooth, with the aid of considerable grime and other artifices, keeps third floor girls in a state of either terror or mirth for the rest of the evening.

Friday, March 14. — Alarm clock goes off in chapel.

Clarence Burck sports a cherise shirt we couldn't have even dreamed up.

Freshman Men's Discussion Contest is won by Bob Hess, whose speech, "The Age of Reason" is described by one peron as "the most intellectual speech in the bunch."

Thursday, March 27. — History is really made when word comes this evening of Goshen College being accepted into the N. C. A. A much-bedecorated truck full of a German band, signs (e. g. "300 living alumni", "Watch us grow!"), and as weird-looking an assemblage as Goshen College can produce on short notice turns out to welcome President Miller after a couple of hours of hectic preparation, and the business district of Goshen is over-run by a jubilant procession. A bonfire on the campus, President Miller's speech, Dean Bender's appearance in his new N. C. A. suit, coffee and doughnuts, and a promise of no school tomorrow all make it a very successful evening. Celebration continues informally into March 28 and it is the general opinion that Goshen College is a grand place to be at a time like this.

Thursday, March 28. — Motion pictures (technicolor) by Sam Campbell, "the meanest man in America", are enjoyed as a large audience takes an armchair tour of the Canadian and Michigan wilds.

Wednesday, April 2. — Chapel is turned into a dignified pep session as next year's plans are revealed; enthusiasm is worked up to the pitch where many from the student body are converted into amateur vacation-time solicitors.

Friday, April 4. — Vacation at last! Chorus starts tour in impressive Greyhound bus.

The Northern Indiana Public Service Company

Monday, April 21. — Goshen College blossoms out in a purple rash as the Hesston College Chorus stops by to give a program. Fannie Schrock explains her last fall's philosophy of life — campus tours are made — program is enjoyed — choruses sing together — we feel much better acquainted with Hesston. Let's do this oftener.

Friday, April 25. — Richard Clayton gives a fine cello concert. Especially appreciated are three of Noble Kreider's compositions; it will be a long time before we forget "The Swan."

Wedneday, April 30. — Dorothy Snapp, an Avon, wins the Woman's Discussion Contest, sponsored by the Vesperians.

Tuesday, May 6. — Arbor day is observed in a very practical manner as students hie to the cabin site to brush up a bit on that little gift of the class of '41.

Friday, May 9. — The wonderings of Ulysses . . . the Odyssey of the class of '41. . . . The Juniors honor their superiors with a banquet of novel background. Much of the originality in decoration is to be accredited to Verna Oyer.

Prognostication must finish out this calendar. We can say, with a fair amount of assurance, that there will be a May-day outing, a spring festival of some sort, the Freshman Men's Peace Oratorical Contest, a number of picnics, final exams, commencement, with a chorus program, alumni banquet, Baccalaureate, and Commencement night. And so, good-bye; may next fall bring many of us together again for a year of activity that will make good material for next year's Maple Leaf Calendar.

INDECO GUIDES TO BETTER ANNUALS

STABILITY

Since the turn of the century the Indianapolis Engraving Company, Inc., has maintained the highest standards of quality and intelligent cooperation, thus accounting for the continuous use of our service by many high schools, colleges and universities.

QUALITY

Indeco quality is the finest that modern equipment and skilled craftsmen can produce. Every engraving is unconditionally guaranteed to be a perfect printing plate and to give a faithful reproduction of your engraving copy.

SPECIALIZATION

Our service includes help in planning and designing, suggestions on how to get the best pictorial effects, assistance in preparation of engraving copy, and solving the many problems arising in making your book both an editorial and financial success.

IDEAS

The latest ideas in yearbook construction are offered to make the annual best meet the requirements of your particular school. Our "Service Manual" is a complete guide for the staff in their work.

RESULTS

Indeco planned yearbooks have long been recognized as being among the outstanding annuals of the country. You will be agreeably surprised, too, at the purchasing power of your budget. Write us asking for a complete explanation of the Indeco plan.
